

Chamber to Cite Eleven Buildings

Eleven outstanding buildings in Torrance will receive architectural merit awards at the Torrance Chamber of Commerce annual banquet, William Burchfield, chairman of the Chamber's awards jury, disclosed today.

The names of the winners will not be revealed until the presentations are made at the banquet to be held at the Pen and Quill restaurant on Saturday, June 22.

This will mark the second year that examples of good architecture have been singled out for public recognition in Torrance. Last year 15 awards were made to the owners of distinguished buildings, Burchfield said.

SERVING on the 1963 awards jury with Burchfield is Signano, member of the Torrance Beautiful Commission and president of Flavio Beauty Colleges; Kenneth Uyeda, member of the Torrance Planning Commission, local landscape designer, and owner of Kenny's Nursery.

Burchfield, a Torrance architect, in making the announcement said, "The awards are being given to encourage the erection of building projects based upon good architectural planning and landscaping. The 1963 awards are based upon these factors, plus good building and grounds maintenance, and how well the particular blends into and generally improves the surrounding neighborhood.

"WE HOPE that buildings so honored will serve as guides for owners and builders when they develop future projects," he added.

Reservations for the banquet can be made by telephoning the Torrance Chamber of Commerce, FAirfax 8-2814.

Importance of Reclaiming Water Stressed by Official

The Supreme Court's decision in favor of Arizona's claim to Colorado River water has prompted Supervisor Kenneth Hahn to re-emphasize the importance of reclamation of sewage water to meet California's future needs.

Hahn this week asked John Parkhurst, chief of County Sanitation Districts, to "move with dispatch" in reporting the feasibility of reclaiming millions of gallons of water being dumped into the ocean daily.

HE ASKED that the possibility of obtaining water from the Columbia and Eel Rivers, and by conversion of salt water by atomic energy, also be included in the report.

Parkhurst told Hahn that the report, requested by the Supervisor in March, should be ready early next month and will show areas in the County where reclamation would be economically feasible and estimated cost of the reclamation process.

"Since the Supreme Court has ruled against California's claim to Colorado River water, I doubt that we can wait until 1968 for the Feather River Project," Hahn said.

A practical, safe and economic method of supplementing the natural water supply," Hahn said.

MORE THAN 13 million gallons of water are reclaimed daily at Whittier Narrows, and local water districts buy the reclaimed water at the same price that the Metropolitan Water District sells untreated water.

The Supervisor pointed out use of the reclaimed water in the Whittier Narrows is unrestricted, and quality requirements are based on Public Health Service "Drinking Water Standards."

"The true significance of the Whittier Narrows Plant is that it is the first step in a program that could increase the available water supply by some 25 to 50 per cent," Hahn said.

HE POINTED OUT that Southern California is in the wake of a serious drought which began 20 years ago and has resulted in loss of 50 per cent of the vegetation in dense brush fields.

"Still, while we face this water shortage, we continue to dump about 280 million gallons of sewage water a day into the ocean from the County's White Point Plant in San Pedro.

"At least 100 million gallons daily could be reclaimed for use by the public," Hahn said.

The Supervisor has proposed construction of reclamation plants to salvage the water. Such a plant has already proved a success in the Whittier Narrows area.

"Waste water reclamation is

A COUNTY Counsel opinion has affirmed that the County Retirement Board could legally finance water reclamation plants for lease to the County—at a minimum cost to the taxpayer.

Hahn said the necessary plants would cost approximately $25 million, and resale of the water would repay the Retirement Board's investment.
